Hi Michael,

After careful consideration over the last few days I have decided not to stand for National Chairman anymore.

I went to three events last week and have spoken to a lot of CF people to gauge their reaction about the election and the majority of people have decided who to back already.

There's also a rumour about me standing and I have no idea how this came about as only three of us know this which has already put me at a disadvantage.

Lastly the main priority in my life now is my law course and I don't feel that I've got the time to run a winnable election campaign.

Thanks again for the opportunity and the encouragement that you have given me. Perhaps next year I might stand but I'd have to start campaigning at least a few months before!

All the best for the future (especially with the baby) and I look forward to seeing you at an event soon.

Best Wishes,

Clare

I understand Michael- don't worry.

Is Graham aware of this as he copied your work e-mail into the launch one?

We came up with some good ideas....I'll e-mail them to you over the weekend at this address and keep you in the loop.

Any day now.....good luck with it!!

Claire,

Be careful how you use me, if you need to consult me can you please do it personally. I cannot afford a whole long paper trail on my involvement or even remote support.

Happy to help and review stuff as and when I have the time. Still no baby....

Many thanks,

Michael

Me and Clare were scouting the ground troops last night, and it seems in her best interests to launch the campaign within the next week. The website will launch next week and we're going to try and get leaflets and stickers available for the CF Crimbo Party. Thoughts...?

Hi Clare,

I would certainly welcome your engagement, but as you know I cannot endorse any candidate but clearly the Party Chairman and DC would welcome a female chair to help me drive through the necessary changes over the next 12 months. We need a really strong team..

Happy to meet you discuss further? My wife is about to give birth any day so maybe late next week might be good. I may or may not be in the office tomorrow depending on what happens over night.

I am sure you understand, but more than happy to chat on the phone. I do have some reservations over the current national candidates. But clearly you will need to work hard to get the votes.

Hi Michael,

Graham spoke to me last night and did suggest this to me. I'd love to stand and I think that I've got what it takes to win and transform the organisation and attract a wider and more diverse membership.

I don't know if you're aware of my involvement within CF over the last ten years but it will help me in this campaign tremendously as I have built solid relationships with activists all around the UK.

I'm free tomorrow to discuss this further.

Please let me know when and where is best for you,

Best wishes,

Clare
