The Carbon Trust and the Energy Saving Trust are notionally private companies, but the overwhelming bulk of their funding is derived from the taxpayer and their directors are nominated by the Government (and in some cases, are government ministers).

National Parks are local authorities but noted in the Defra resource accounts as bodies substantially under the control of the Core department.

The Basic Skills Agency describes itself as a small, quick response, independent organisation, working with our funders the Department for Education and Skills and the Welsh Assembly Government. We're not-for-profit and a charity. We're a national ideas and innovation organisation, focusing on finding practice worth sharing and disseminating it effectively.

The British Academy is the national academy for the humanities and the social sciences, the counterpart to the Royal Society which exists to serve the natural sciences. The Academy receives a Parliamentary grant-in-aid, and administers its own private funds arising from gifts and legacies, from contributions made by the Fellows themselves, and from grants made by research foundations. The British Academy is a Registered Charity

CILT, the National Centre for Languages is the Government's recognised centre of expertise on languages. The organisation's mission is to promote a greater capability in languages amongst all sectors of the UK population.

The National Centre for Languages was formed in 2003 through the merger of the Centre for Information on Language Teaching and Research and the Languages National Training Organisation. The creation of the new organisation was announced as part of the Government's National Languages Strategy. It plays a key role in managing national initiatives in support of language capability and the implementation of the National Strategy as well as offering a wide range of services for teachers, learners, researchers, users and providers of language services and the business community.

The Specialist Schools and Academies Trust (SSAT) is the leading national body for secondary education in England, part funded by the DfES, delivering the Government's Specialist Schools and Academies programme. The Government's aim is that by 2008 all schools will be specialist, except those planned to be Academies.

University for Industry controlled by a charitable trust, but overwhelming majority of income derived from DfES.

LECT's mission is to support teachers and promote excellence in education through developing, supporting and promoting a wide range of international professional development programmes for teachers and educators.

Schools Adjudicators are appointed by the Secretary of State under section 25 of the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 to adjudicate on objections to school admissions policies and proposals to open or close schools. They are employed at public expense and are provided with an administrative staff. They rank as a quasi-tribunal.

Network Rail Limited is to all intents and purposes a Public Corporation (although it is not treated as such for the purposes of calculating public debt). It has a number of subsidiaries, but the consolidated group is treated as a single entity for the purposes of this study.

PPP Arbiter is wholly funded by the DfT (Written Answer 1 November 2004).

Transport for London is treated as being under the effective control of central government. The staffing figure quoted is the best available estimate.

The Strategic Rail Authority is supposedly being abolished, yet somehow it has managed to increase its staffing level.

NATS is the holding company for the national air traffic control system. It was subject to a private-public partnership form of privatisation in 2002, and a further restructuring in 2003. The Crown remains the largest single shareholder and has special control rights through a golden share. In substance it can be regarded as under government control.

The 2005/06 DfT resource accounts describe Transport for London as a "Nationalised Industry". The staffing figure quoted is the best available estimate.

Channel Tunnel Rail Link Complaints Commissioner exists to advise members of the public opposed to the construction of the rail link and mediate on disputes.

Cross London Rail Links Ltd has been established to build the Maidenhead-Essex/Kent rail link. It is jointly owned by DfT and TfL.
 Marine & Aviation War Risks Fund is the successor body to an insurance fund which covered cross-Atlantic convoys during the Second World War.
 The Port of London Authority is a public trust exercising statutory powers to run the docks and harbours of London.
 King's Lynn Harbour Conservancy is also mentioned in the DfT resource accounts for 2005/6, but this is counted as a local authority (although the position is kept under review).

Public Health Observatories collect statistics on regional public health for other regional quangos and are treated as being quangos themselves.

Figures quoted for "All NHS Trusts" are the DH internal estimates for total permanent non-medical staffing for all NHS Acute Trusts, Ambulance Trusts, Foundation Trusts, Care Trusts and Mental Health Trusts. It excludes agency or temporary staff. They excludes medical staff.

Figures quoted for Primary Care Trusts are the DH internal estimates for non-medical staff.

DH is in the process of "reconfiguring" NHS Bodies. Some of the entities cited above may not now exist, having been merged to form other entities with different names. For example, the Strategic Health Authorities have been merged into a smaller number of units each covering larger geographical areas.

The ONS reclassified the Nuclear Liabilities Fund as a public body in 2004/5, but they have yet to agree with the Cabinet Office what category of quango it qualifies as. In this study it has been treated as an Executive NDPB.

The Nuclear Liabilities Fund (NLF) is considered to be a 100% subsidiary of the Department and British Energy Group plc (BE) is a 64.63% quasi-sub subsidiary of NLF and hence the Department.

British Energy Limited is the dormant rump company left behind as a result of the restructuring of the BE group to assist in the handling of nuclear liabilities.

The Financial Services Authority is an "independent" body funded out of levies on operators in the financial services sector. However its board of directors is appointed by HM Treasury and it exercises statutory powers under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000, and it is counted as an HMT quango on that basis. HMT 2005/6 resource accounts discloses Partnerships UK and Pool Re as "arm's length bodies of the Treasury".

Pool Re is a mutual reinsurance company set up by the insurance industry in 1993. Pool Re has substantial reserves, and in addition HM Treasury acts as reinsurer of last resort.

Police Authorities are local authorities but treated for these purposes as being under the substantial control of the Home Office. Staffing for Police Authorities taken as members plus direct secretariat serving Authority meetings; the Authority for the City of London is the Mayor and Corporation, which is treated wholly as a local authority outside the scope of this study. Where information on employed staff is unavailable, the number of known Authority members is reported plus at least one employee as Chief Executive/Clerk and the Authority has been denoted by an asterisk * above.

Dyfed-Powys Police Authority have a delightful staffing structure diagram which explains why they spend their time going round in circles:

There are no subsidiary quangos.

ARA was technically insolvent in 2005/6.

The law was changed in 2005 to enable ARA to apply recovered assets directly against current costs (instead of surrendering criminal assets to the Treasury). This resulted in an internal accounting error by which the ARA overspent its parliamentary estimates (i.e. incurred unauthorised expenditure of taxpayers' money) by £6.7m.

On 11th January 2007, the Home Office issued a Written Statement of their intention to merge ARA with the new Serious Organised Crime Agency.

Regional Assemblies act as regional planning bodies for the purposes of ODPM planning guidance and are treated as quangos because they have a statutory role under the Regional Development Agencies Act 1998

(although ODPM professes to regard them as private entities).

Regional Observatories collect regional statistics for other regional quangos, and are therefore deemed to be quangos themselves. They operate out of the offices of Regional Development Agencies (which are clearly quangos).

Regional Management Boards are partnerships of Fire Authorities (which are local authorities) formed on the orders of ODPM to manage new regional fire control centres. They would not exist unless ODPM had required them to be established, and are therefore treated as quangos.

The London Pensions Fund Authority (LPFA), which came into being in 1989, is the largest Local Government Pension Scheme provider in London, with over 70,000 fund members, and one of the largest in England. The fund originated from the Greater London Council (GLC) and Inner London Education Authority (ILEA) following their abolitions in 1986 and 1990 respectively.

The May 2006 reshuffle, which reformed ODPM as DCLG, will also have moved some of the equalities quangos into this remit.

All units within the official Royal Household counted as a single department for the purpose of this study. Only those staff employed out of public funds counted.

This is effectively a property company which happens to be owned by the Queen. I do not regard it as a Government department, although since the Duchy does have certain legal privileges in Lancashire, it would be correct to regard it as a self-financing quango.

Duchy of Lancaster Office comprises 15 employed on the Duchy and 2 working to assist the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (who is a Cabinet minister).
